Welcome to the Towns of Central Mass South!

Whether you live here, work here, or are here for a visit, our region of Central Mass is alive with opportunities and possibilities.

Widely known as the home of the Brimfield Antiques & Collectibles Shows, the Publick House Historic Inn, and Old Sturbridge Village, our towns – Southbridge, Sturbridge, Charlton, Spencer, the Brookfields, Brimfield, Holland, Wales, and Warren – are also recognized for their local specialty businesses, antique shops, restaurants, beautiful countryside, destination weddings, craft breweries, and rich history.

Our close proximity to the Greater Boston area to the east, the Greater Springfield area to the west, and Hartford to the south, great public schools and colleges, and highly-respected community healthcare services make living here a desirable option for commuters, and a great place to raise a family.

Our local economy, founded on family-owned manufacturing companies and locally-owned businesses now generations old, is strong and self-sustaining, providing employment and driving a buy-local/support-local culture that empowers economic development. Our business community is supported by seven community financial institutions who invest millions annually in our local economy and community. This makes us an attractive area for launching a new business, financing a home, and investing in your future.

Collectively, the towns that make up Central Mass South create a diverse and vibrant community filled with unique places and experiences to be enjoyed all year long. For more information on our area and suggestions on where to go and what to do, consult the Directory of Member Businesses inside this Guide, and visit the Chamber of Central Mass South website at www.cmschamber.org for more information.
